

Business Notes

A new business got its start in Falmouth this morning when the doors of Cape Cod Hobby Village were thrown open for the first time. The new shop, which caters to hobbies for the whole family, is adjacent to Paul's Auto Body on East Main street. Owner and manager of the new shop is William W. duMont Jr. of 7 Dartmouth avenue.

The 24-year-old former Marine is a graduate of Lawrence High school and has been a resident of Falmouth for 16 years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. duMont of 11 Mullen way.

Mr. duMont has been an ardent model builder for many years, especially boat models. He has a special interest in the old fashioned type wooden model which requires skill and patience to construct. Through diligent search he has been able to procure not only the wooden boat models but the old type balsa wood and paper flying models of airplanes.

The student science section of the new shop covers a wide variety of subjects including biological study kits, microscopic instruments, chemical kits and many more. For art minded adult or teenagers a large selection of painting equipment is available. Aircraft and boat models in both wooden and plastic kits covering a period from old-square-riggers to supersonic aircraft are on hand.

Mr. duMont said his new shop

is to offer Falmouth residents, junior and senior, something to fill in the slack periods of the year. Having a hobby is both enjoyable and leaves the hobbyist with a sense of achievement, he pointed out.
